PRESCOTT LITTE TO THE NEW YORK MINING RECORD.

Prescott, A. T., July 14, 1881.
Ed. Mining Record—The Peck mine was discovered in June, 1875, and shortly afterwards the Silver Prince and Black Warrior mines were found, and in October, the Peck mining district was organized and contains several of the richest mining claims in Northern Arizona. The Peck mine was discovered in June, 1875, and shortly afterwards the Silver Prince and Black Warrior mines were found, and in October, the Peck mining district was organized and contains several of the richest mining claims in Northern Arizona.

The reputation of Raymond had preceded him here, and the people of Prescott and vicinity joined in giving him a grand reception and supper at the Prescott theatre, the largest building in the county. Nothing was too nice for him to say than about this country and its mines and prospects.

On his reports, New York parties bought the Peck and Warrior mines and have been working them for some time. The Peck mine was discovered in June, 1875, and shortly afterwards the Silver Prince and Black Warrior mines were found, and in October, the Peck mining district was organized and contains several of the richest mining claims in Northern Arizona.

The superintendent had recently had a lot of Peck ore worked at the Peck mine, and at the last clean-up a dispute arose about the terms of the contract for crushing the ore, between the superintendent and the lessee of the mill, and about $4,000 was paid to the superintendent. The Peck mine was discovered in June, 1875, and shortly afterwards the Silver Prince and Black Warrior mines were found, and in October, the Peck mining district was organized and contains several of the richest mining claims in Northern Arizona.

Raymond says that a set of thieves, who had been working at the Peck mine, had been caught by the Peck mine. The Peck mine was discovered in June, 1875, and shortly afterwards the Silver Prince and Black Warrior mines were found, and in October, the Peck mining district was organized and contains several of the richest mining claims in Northern Arizona.

Since working the Peck mine, the Peck mine has been in the hands of the Peck mine. AN ACT TO REGULATE THE BUSINESS OF BUTCHERING IN THE TERRITORY OF ARIZONA.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the Territory of Arizona:
SECTION 1. Every person or persons, before he or they shall set up and carry on the trade or business of butchering or slaughtering horned cattle in this Territory of Arizona, shall file a bond, approved by some Justice of the Peace, in the county where said business is proposed to be carried on, in the sum of one thousand dollars, conditioned as follows, to wit: That he or they will keep a true and faithful record (in a book to be kept for that purpose), of all cattle purchased or slaughtered by him or them, with a description, including marks, brands, age and weight, and from whom purchased (giving the date of said purchase) and to keep the hides of said animals free to the inspection of all persons, for ten days after slaughtering.

SECTION 2. Any person or persons who shall be found carrying on the business of butchering or slaughtering cattle in this Territory without having filed the bond, as provided in section 1, of this Act, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined in the sum of not less than fifty nor more than one hundred dollars for every day he or they shall carry on such business, to be recovered before any Justice of the Peace of the county, by indictment in the District Court.

SECTION 3. Any person or persons who shall carry on the business of butchering or slaughtering cattle, and shall fail to keep a record, as provided in section 1, of this Act, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined in the sum of not less than fifty nor more than one hundred dollars for every day he or they shall carry on such business, to be recovered before any Justice of the Peace of the county, by indictment in the District Court.

SECTION 4. The records, as provided for in this Act, shall be subject to the inspection of all persons, and all hides taken from animals shall be subject to inspection for ten days, and any person or persons engaged in the business of butchering, refusing such inspection or examination, shall be subject to a fine of not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars, for every day he or they shall carry on such business, to be recovered before any Justice of the Peace of the county, by indictment in the District Court.

SECTION 5. All fines recovered under this Act shall be paid into the treasury of the proper county, and placed to the credit of the County School Fund, and the offender and his sureties shall be liable to the county, as provided in section 1, of this Act, for all fines, penalties and costs adjudged against him or them by any court of competent jurisdiction.

SECTION 6. This Act to take effect and be in force from and after the first day of May, 1881.

AN ACT CONCERNING HIDES OF CATTLE.
Be it enacted by the Legislature of the Territory of Arizona:
SECTION 1. All persons not engaged as butchers, who shall at any time kill or slaughter, or who shall cause to be killed or slaughtered any cattle, within the Territory of Arizona, shall be liable to the county, as provided in section 1, of this Act, for all fines, penalties and costs adjudged against him or them by any court of competent jurisdiction.

SECTION 2. All persons violating the provisions of the foregoing Act, shall be liable to the county, as provided in section 1, of this Act, for all fines, penalties and costs adjudged against him or them by any court of competent jurisdiction.

SECTION 3. All fines collected under the foregoing Act shall be paid into the county treasury, and shall be subject to the credit of the county school fund.

SECTION 4. This Act shall take effect and be in force from and after the first day of April, A. D. 1881.

Even Bureaus are Busted.

"Why," he replied to a cop, "I never saw so much push and rush in Detroit since the war, and I presume it is so all over the country. The brown even extends to my profession, which you are aware is that of a burglar. I haven't been so rushed for ten years. I have advertised in a dozen papers for a 'pal,' but can't get one at any price. Third-class men, only fit to put up ladders, hold lighted candles, pound with a sledge, and sweat an alibi, are getting their own prices this year. The two I had struck for $7 a day apiece, and I had to pay it or let my business go to ruin. You have no idea of the number of chances we have had for jobs this year, and the season is promising jobs. I have a hunch that I am so pushed that I hardly know which way to turn first."

"Anything very big on hand?"
"Oh! a dozen of 'em. I ought to go up Woodward avenue tonight and rob a house where two back windows have been left up for a whole week, but I may not get around to it because one of my pals is dead drunk in his room upstairs. Then there's a splendid show down Fort Street. Two of the back doors won't lock, some of the chamber windows are unfastened, and there's half a cord of silverware piled up in one room. Duty tells me that I ought to take it right away, but something may prevent. Dear me, but I wish I could hire at least three first-class burglars for the next six weeks. I've got a special lay for them."

"Anything startling?"
"Well, no. There's a bank in Toledo we could get at very handy, a jeweler over in Chicago who wishes to be robbed, and I know of a farmer out here a few miles who has $3,000 in gold in the house. If I had two good men I could gather in at least $50,000 within the next ten days; but this boom has been all about. I need two full sets of burglar tools right off, but any blacksmith is rushed with other work, and must be paid. I went yesterday to see about wigs and whiskers, and found a dozen orders ahead of me."

"If fortunate?"
"Well, I should say so! It just makes my heart ache to know that scores of back doors are unlocked, hundreds of windows left open, heaps of silver and jewelry left kicking around, and here I'm so fixed that I can't push. I'm nervous and uneasy, but I can't mend matters as I see. It just happens to come across a first-class hall thief and a pair of professional cracksmen, I wish you'd send 'em to me. I'll guarantee the very highest wages and steady employment for the season."—Detroit Free Press.

Important Mining Suit Decided.
In the suit of Bevoort against the New Mexico Mining Company, Jerome B. Chaffee, S. R. Elkins, et al., which has been for a long time in the courts of New Mexico, involving the title and ownership of the Ortiz mine grant, Chief Justice Prince, on the 26th inst., rendered a decision on demurrer in favor of plaintiff. The decision virtually settles the law of the case, and establishes title in Bevoort. The Ortiz grant, situated in Santa Fe County, New Mexico, is one of the most valuable mineral grants in the United States, containing 50,000 acres of land.

A monster pine tree grew on the ranch of Wm. E. Finn, San Diego county, being supported on two large oak trees. The other day the accumulated weight of branches and fruit completely crushed one tree, tearing it out by the roots, and almost demolishing Mr. Finn's dwelling. The size of the vine may be estimated from the fact that the crushed tree is perfectly sound, and is now a half in a flag, and over 60 feet high, with a diameter of branches. Mr. Finn thinks that there were fully five tons of grapes on that portion of the vine that destroyed the tree.

Mineral prospectors should guard against those who come West for the purpose of putting a small amount of money into mining property, being well-to-do, and looking the property up, too costly and void of confidence to develop and improve the property. Such men do more to retard the progress of new mining camps than all the Indian, scores and thousands of one year.—Albuquerque Journal.

The progress of the President toward convalescence is proceeding in a most satisfactory manner. The "granulation" of the wound, the process of forming new tissue, increased strength, comfortable and normal sleep at night, an increased proportion of solid food, and an almost entire absence of the febrile condition during the afternoon are the welcome signs of a return to health and vigor.

A clothes line is a barometer of the weather. When it is up, it is a sign of a storm. When it is down, it is a sign of a calm. When it is up, it is a sign of a storm. When it is down, it is a sign of a calm. When it is up, it is a sign of a storm. When it is down, it is a sign of a calm.

There were over a hundred men lynched in Arkansas last year. The cry was good, but the activity of mobs will make it much better this year. Arkansas is by far the most lawless state in the union at the present time.
